

THE CONCRETE PROJECT'S BIO

"The Concrete Project epitomizes both the strengths and trappings of a hip-hop jam band. That is, they can sound aggressively raw and energetic with their live instruments." - Quan Vu, San Diego Rap Music Examiner

The Concrete Project is a band that utilizes live instruments rather than the traditional tools of Hip Hop. Eddie's bass provides the funk slaps, Jen Mango's keys supplies the soul, Shaun Bro's guitar mixes in the rock, Cody throws in his jam band style drums while Caleb and Tory unify these elements with their feel good rhymes. Though it seems impossible to find an equilibrium amongst their many styles, The Concrete Project has found common ground as hard as rock.

You can find The Concrete Project playing music venues that seat thousands to local bars that you can barely fit a VW Bug in; playing with world famous acts such as De La Soul, Souls of Mischief, Onyx and Fishbone or sharing the stage with local up and comers. The Concrete Project understands that music doesn't set boundaries so they follow suit and let the music travel wherever it pleases.

THE CONCRETE PROJECT'S PRESS

The Concrete Project epitomizes both the strengths and trappings of a hip-hop jam band. That is, they can sound aggressively raw and energetic with their live instruments. - Quan Vu, San Diego Rap Music Examiner

Though she usually paints to reggae or ska, Dyer has dabbled in hip-hop, once rocking out a graffiti art-inspired skateboard deck while the band Concrete Project performed. "I was dancing on stage while painting," she says. "I just started grooving. I had to stop myself 'cause I can't paint and dance at the same time." -Pat Sherman, Pacific San Diego Magazine

Concrete Project was keeping a crowded room in Kadan's dark corner busy with high energy and live band performance with their own deejay, percussion and keyboard. -Nick Kulyoom Alatool, Star in the Sky Productions

The Concrete Project is a hip-hop band that's been nominated for San Diego Music Awards, and is a 6-piece with live instruments instead of the traditional DJ and MC with nothing else. They're up-beat and have a big following. -Josh Board, SanDiego.com

...San Diego's The Concrete Project with their eclectic mixture of lyrical tunes and hip hop numbers delivered by a refreshing assortment of musician/artist/poets. -Brenda McFarlane, OBrag.com
